COLUMBIA, ADAIR COUNTY, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY AUGUST 31, 1910.

NUMBER 43

Surprised Their Friends.

Last Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock, Miss Martha Hancock, an accomplished and popular daughter of Judge and Mrs. James Hancock, was married in the parlors of the Hancock Hotel to Prof. W. M. Wilson, a very elegant gentleman, principal of the Graded School, this place. The ceremony was beautifully pronounced by Rev. B. M. Currie, pastor of the Methodist Church, in the presence of relatives and a few special friends. The wedding march was played by Miss Alice Walker. It was known that Prof. Wilson and Miss Hancock were going together, but their marriage at this time was a surprise to many of their friends.

Soon after the ceremony the couple left to visit several points, and will be at home in a few days.

CONTRIBUTED

Wilson Hancock.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Columbia, Ky., on Aug. 24th, 1910, Prof. W. M. Wilson, Williamsburg, Ky., Prin. of The Columbia Graded School and Miss Martha M. Hancock, Ed. M. Z. Williams being ill the ceremony was performed by Rev. B. M. Currie, at which the bridal party left immediately for Louisville, where they will spend a few days. Upon their return they will go to house-keeping on Jamestown St.

The best wishes of the community follow Prof. and Mrs. Wilson.

The Shows.

The KaBell Kritchfield big show entertained at Columbia during the Fair and was well patronized throughout the week. The show consists of the best dancers, musical artists and comedians, presenting plays and comedies not oft'n seen outside the larger cities. The moving picture department is something grand. The whole aggregation conducted themselves in a most becoming manner. From here they went to Lebanon.

The Dixie Vaudeville show also occupied East Columbia School building every night but Saturday. This too, is a very entertaining show, and during the week presented many attractive features. The singing, dancing, and piano overtures were first-class. This company is at Tompkinsville this week.

Teachers Wanted.

The demand for teachers who have been trained in the Western Normal is greater than the supply. The Fall Session opens September 6th. Write President H. H. Chew, Bowling Green, Ky., for information relative to free tuition. 43-2t

Do not fail to be at the court-house next Saturday evening.

Mr. Archie W. Miller, of Hatcher, Ky., and Mr. G. H. Upchurch, of Savage, Ky., were here here Friday and stood an examination before Bros. Hulse, Johnson and Currie for licenses to preach. Their examination was approved and they were licensed. This makes 15 young men who have been licensed to preach in Columbia District during the three years of Hulse Presiding Eldership and 9 who have been recommended to the Conference for admission.

The busiest man at the Columbia Fair last week was W. L. Grady, the owner of Jordan Peacock who has founded one of the fanciest family of show horses in the State. Mr. Grady made nine shows and took only nine blue ribbons. The above was taken on Peacock colts. After the shows he sold two of them to Mr. W. E. Harris, of Richmond, Va., at a fancy price.

I have an extra good buggy horse for sale. Also a nice lot of household and kitchen furniture. Fred Myers, Columbia, Ky.

Mr. John Hairs showed his suckling mule at the fair and sold it to Mr. Rufus Price for $125. While it did not wear the blue ribbon yet it is probably the best mule of its age in this part of the county.

There will be a meeting of old soldiers at the Joel Moore place, near Weed, Adair county, Tuesday and Wednesday, September 6th and 7th. There will be good speaking, fine music and dinner for every body.

The infant child of M. E. Corbin, of Dulworth, died Monday night of last week. The funeral was held at the church conducted by Rev. B. M. Currie. The cause of the death was an affection of the head.

The Grove's fertilizers are as good as the best. C. E. Young. 43-1m

Mr. W. E. Harris, Richmond, Va., bought of W. L. Grady, during the Fair two Peacock colts for $225.

A Former Resident Drowned.

George Page, who was a son of the late C. R. Page and a nephew of Dr. J. N. Page, was drowned in a lake at Sidwell, Texas, on Saturday the 20th inst. The young man was born and partly reared in Columbia. He was married and was the manager of a store at Sidwell for his brother, F. E. Page. It is supposed that he was bathing when the end came. His remains were brought to Gainesville for interment. He was an excellent young man and his death brought much sorrow to relatives in this place.

For Sale.

If not sold privately before the third Monday in September, first day of circuit court, I will at the court-house door, to the highest bidder, sell my residence and 18 acres of land, in the corporate limits of Columbia, situated this side of the Fair grounds. The property will be sold for cash in hand. One-half acre will be reserved. 43-2t M. C. Hudson.

Remember that a reader and impersonator will be at the court-house next Saturday evening.

A New Organ.

Only about forty eight dollars are now required to complete the cash payment in full for the new $400 organ soon to be purchased by the Presbyterian church. Those having the matter in charge are quite anxious to have this balance paid promptly that the instrument may be ordered at once. The organ is greatly needed and its acquisition adds greatly to the worship of the church.

We will not buy any wheat for two weeks, but will exchange four for wheat during that time. Smith & McBeath.

Hon. D. C. Edwards.

He will meet as many Republicans as possible on these dates, as he will have something of interest to tell. Ladies are invited. 43-2t

Invitations to the marriage of Miss Martha Russell Morning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Samuel Morning, Urbana, Ill., to Mr. Roy Lee Dixon have been received at this place. The ceremony will take place September 5th at the home of the intended bride. They will reside at Cochester, Ill.

Don't wait too long to buy your fertilizer. I have what you need at the right prices. 43-1m C. E. Young.

Miss Minnie Kemp was, last week, elected to a position as teacher in the Elizabethtown, Ky., High School. She accepted the position at once sent her resignation to the place she held in the Elizabethtown, Ky., Graded School, and will leave next Saturday morning to take charge of her new work.

THE FAIR.

The Attendance Large, Good Order, and a General Rejoicing.

FULL LIST OF PREMIUMS AWARDED.

Last Friday afternoon marked the closing of a very successful meeting of The Columbia Fair Association. Good order was maintained throughout the week, and the many visitors who were here from all adjoining counties spent a most delightful time. A few men were noticed in their cups, but no serious trouble occurred during the week. The attendance was large each day, but Thursday the crowd was a record breaker, fully six thousand people present.

There was not as much stock as usual exhibited, due perhaps to Liberty Fair and Columbia Fair conflicting, but the horses that were here were good ones, making the rings very attractive. The mule, cattle, hog and sheep shows were up to expectations, and in many contests it was difficult to tie the ribbon.

In all the contests Mr. Sam Makin, of Lebanon, and Mr. W. F. Orwelle, of Burkesville, were the Judges. They are gentlemen who have been handling horses and other stock for many years, and having no interest at stake, and being strictly honest, every exhibitor had a fair and impartial showing. We are satisfied that every decision was made according to honest judgment, hence there was but little if any kicking.

The music rendered by Wehley's Band was high class and very enchanting. The premiums awarded follow, the first named the premium, second certificate. The third name shows that there was third money:

QUEER WEDDING GIFTS.

One Couple of Mature Years Received

From Pair of Cuffs.

An Englishman extremely fond of hunting received as a wedding gift from an anonymous person a complete set of false limbs a set of artificial teeth and a couple of glass eyes, to procure all of which the sarcastic donor must, of course, have put himself to considerable expense. Accompanying these strange presents was a note wherein the donor expressed the belief that by reason of the recipient's many falls while following the hounds, some or all of these substitutes might ultimately prove of use. As the bridegroom had incurred much embarrassment while holding office under his government, it was supposed that these gifts came from a disappointed office seeker.

A well known American writer received from a rival man of letters a scrap book wherein were carefully pasted and indexed many hundreds of clippings containing adverse criticisms touching the former's work, and a popular artist was presented with a set of elementary works upon self instruction in drawing and painting.

Some years ago in the west an elderly, crusty merchant on espousing a splinter of mature age was presented by an undertaker with two coffins for himself and wife. The merchant accompanied these ghastly gifts stating that they would, unlike most of the other offerings received, be sure to be of service. Naturally without the bridegroom resented this singular if useful gift, and it took all the efforts of mutual friends to prevent a breach of the peace.

Like vexation was no doubt felt by an infirm octogenarian in Ohio who wedded a pleasure loving woman more than fifty years his junior. The present in this case was a large brass cage, "intended," so the inevitable accompanying letter stated, "to restrain the wayward flights of a giddy young wife who has married a decrepit old fool for his money."—Chicago Record-Herald.

PIRATES OF HONGKONG.

They Are the Real Old Fashioned

Bloodthirsty Kind.

There are pirates in Hongkong—not the usual kind that greet the gentle stranger with an expansive smile and take what he has for worthless rubbish, nor yet the petty thieves that, for that name on our own water fronts, but the real old fashioned, murderous kind, who count not the victims as they reckon the spoils.

Of course they do not swagger in costume, as all real pirates should, or ply their trade in Hongkong's immediate waters, but among the thousands of fishermen, storekeepers and coal handlers that crowd the harbor's edge they mingle and gossip water front news, knowing well when a particularly rich cargo is due from the interior.

In the pursuit of their trade, a junk darts out of one of the many estuaries far up the West or Pearl river and swoops with the suddenness of a hawk on the heavily laden prize, or, as happened in the case of the Salnam, hauls a hundred take passage in the crowded hold of a river steamer and when the handful of unsuspecting whites gather at dinner raise a headless yell on the startled air, and the ship is taken. Bitter thrust through bolted doors subdues the pitiful fire that lasts a little while from behind the shot torn tablecloth, but the ship is already boarded by the bank by the quarter-master with a rifle at his ear, and one more tragedy is added to the long list of crimes on the Skinkang—W. J. Aylward in Harper's Magazine.

Suicide by Swallowing Gold.

Suicide by swallowing gold is sometimes accomplished by Chinese. The following is an authoritative account, written by a very learned Chinese for the Westminster Gazette, of how this much contested form of suicide is accomplished:

"In swallowing gold it is not loose gold leaf or gold dust that is swallowed, but a solid lump of gold, or even a gold ring, weighing about half an ounce. Gold is not at any time of a corrupting nature, but when a lump of it is swallowed and gets into the bowel it falls, on account of its intrinsic weight, to rise and surmount the convolutions of the bowels and can therefore never complete its passage. After two or three days it therefore sinks through the bowel and destroys life without any suffering."

An Unfortunate Response.

The problem of too many churches in a given locality is often a perplexing one. It is said that the churches in a certain village, on opposite sides of the streets, were so close that when the congregation in one church sang "Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown?" the congregation in the other church promptly responded, "No, No, One; No, No, One." Fortunate is it if the seeming contradiction is confined to the unintentional inharmonious responses in songs.—Lippincott's.

Table All Right.

"Do they have a good table?" asks the prospective guest.
"It is first rate," answers the man who has just returned—"solid oak, with heavy legs and a polished top." Judge.

A Question of Gifts.

"Why did you deliberately make an enemy of your old friend Jinks?"
"Because he is to be married next month."—Lippincott's.

HELPING HUMANITY.

Father and Son Visited Conditions

From Chicago Standard.

Twenty years ago, says the Chicago Advance, a discouraged young doctor in a large city was visited once by his old father, who came up from a rural district to look after his boy.

"Well, son," he said, "how are you getting along?"

"I'm getting along all right," was the disheartened reply. "I'm not doing a thing."

The old man's countenance fell, but he spoke of courage and patience and perseverance. Later in the day he went with his son to the free dispensary, where the young doctor had an unsalaried position and where he spent an hour or more every day. The father sat by, a silent but intensely interested spectator, while twenty-two poor unfortunates received help. The doctor forgot his visitor while he bent his skilled energies to the task, but hardly had the door closed on the last patient when the old man burst forth:

"I thought you told me that you were doing nothing! Why, if I had helped twenty-five here in a month as much as you have in one morning I would thank God my life could be worth anything. Money! What is money in comparison with being of use to your fellow men? Never mind about money. You go right along at this work every day. I'll go back to the farm and gladly earn money enough to support you as long as I live—yes, and sleep sound every night with the thought that I have helped you to help your fellow men."

Quiet Way in Which He Bullied the Theatrical Managers.

Here are the methods which Dumas the actor and Victor Hugo employed when they had a new play to offer to the theater. Dumas would write to the director of the Porte St. Martin:

My Dear Friend—I shall bring you on Monday a play in five acts. I shall need Mlle. Georges, M. Desval, Bocan, Lockroy, Provost and five new scenes.

This extraneous would alarm the director, who would put off the production of the play till better days. Then Victor Hugo would appear and shyly draw a manuscript out of his pocket. He would read to everybody the stock company would play his piece admirably, since all he wanted was a good ensemble; no new decorations would be needed nor any change at all.

So the piece would be read, and as the roles were distributed Hugo would say musically, "Dien, how fine Frederick would be in that part!" "That is true," Horel would murmur, and a few days after he would announce that Frederick was engaged. Hugo would then reiterate that this destroyed the equipment of the cast, and Hancourt, Lafontaine and Mlle. Georges would be engaged. Then Hugo would attack the stage setting. Old scenes that the public had tired of were almost an insult to the great artists. Hugo showed reluctance at this. Hugo would threaten to withdraw his piece. And so the game would go on till, little by little, Hugo had obtained everything he wanted, even to the changing of the paper hangings in the stage boxes.

Australia's Stony Desert.

The great stony desert of north Australia was discovered by Captain Stuart, an Australian explorer, in 1845-6. It is north of the river Darling and is about 300 miles long and 100 broad, consisting of sandy dunes or ridges. Its want of trees, except along the creeks, gives the country a sterile appearance. These ridges were probably formed by the joint effect of wind and a gradually retreating sea. According to Captain Stuart, these waters were annihilated by evaporation. He carried to some undiscovered sea, the only vegetation, growing scantily, is prickly acacias in full bloom, all of which are dead. Water is scarce except in the creeks which are sheltered, and this is generally brackish. Few travelers care to traverse this inhospitable desert.

A Quick Lie.

Providence of mind recently saved an eccentric actor his gold watch and chain. While crossing a bridge in a thick night mist a suspicious looking man suddenly loomed up out of the obscurity.

"Can you tell me the time, governor?" he gruffly inquired.
"You are too late, my dear sir," replied the actor suavely. "A gentleman who passed a minute ago stole my watch!"—Exchange.

The Aftermath.

Mrs. DuPuy—I was so surprised to hear that Edith and Mr. Sinsington were married. You know they always used to claim their attachment was merely platonic. Mrs. Kohlremsen—Yes, I remember. But now, I fear they wouldn't claim it was even that.—Lippincott's.

Exercise.

Walking, we are told, is a good exercise—better than riding in an automobile. The trouble is that a great many of us are not looking for exercise.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

A Forecast.

Jones—What do you think will be the end of the woman question? Brown—There won't be any end. They'll always be asking ten.

Praise undeserved is satire in disguise.—Broadhurst.

BROKE UP THE HABIT.

A Woman Who Found a Simple Remedy

For a Big Annoyance.

"What has become of those two children who visited you so often?" asked one west side woman of another. The other smiled discreetly.

"They are the children of my niece, and she was making a convenience of me. Of course I love the children, but I never allow myself to become much of a victim of imposition. My niece is an extremely gay young widow, and she does not like to take care of her children. She is fond of shopping, matinees, afternoon teas and everything, in short, which takes her away from home, and she got into a habit of sending her children over to my house for me to take care of whenever she wished to gad about. I decided it was time to break up the habit, for her own good and that of the children, as well as mine, so I did."

"I suppose that made your niece angry?"

"Oh, no; it couldn't. I never said anything about it. The last time the children came over I spent the afternoon teaching them verses from the Bible, and they didn't find it sufficient entertaining. They never came back. Just how they managed to work it out with their mother I do not know, but I suppose they struck or begged off. Of course she could not object to what I had done, and it proved a very simple solution."—New York Press.

AN ASTOR DEAL.

The Only Time That Old John Jacob

Sold Real Estate.

"One of the most stringent real estate rules of the Astor family is 'never sell,' and only one sale is recorded in the entire life of old John Jacob Astor," said Niles F. Watkins, a real estate broker of New York. "In 1830 Astor tore down his house in Broadway, cleared the whole block for Vesey to Barclay street and built the huge Quincey granite hotel known as the Astor House, which was one of the first notable landmarks in New York and also one of the best paying pieces of property."

"A few days after it was finished the old gentleman and his eldest son, William, were walking through City Hall park, where the postoffice now stands, and happened a moment to admire the building, the finest hotel in America at that time."

"Pop, that's a mighty fine building," said William. "I wish to gracious it was mine."

"So?" answered the father. "Well, Billy, give me $1 and you can have it." "I'll give you $100,000," said the son, who is now a millionaire. "The dollar that is cherished by the family to this day—and within an hour the deed of the property was made out and recorded. That was old Mr. Astor's only sale of real estate in his life."—Washington Herald.

A Solomon-like Decision.

A Rhode Island justice was called upon to determine the ownership of a brood of turkeys. The flock, consisting of fifteen birds, was divided between two hens, a white one and a bronze, and had been running for quite a time over two adjoining farms. The owner of the white hen declared that the turkeys were his, while the man who owned the bronze hen asserted just as positively that they belonged to him. The justice was puzzled. At last a witness came forward who swore that he had seen a dog chase the flock; that at the dog's approach the young birds flew up into a tree and the bronze hen took to the woods, but the white hen turned and gave battle to the dog. The justice then decided that the owner of the white hen was also the rightful owner of the brood of young turkeys.—New York Press.

A Woman's Wit.

The husband of Lydia Childs was an invalid for many years. He was not well off in this world's goods, and much of the support of the family was earned by the young man, the husband, and of his wife's many sacrifices for his comfort, Mr. Childs once said for her regretfully, "My dear, I wish I were Croesus."

Whereupon Mrs. Childs, with ready wit and gracious tact, responded, "I wish I were Croesus, for you are king of Lydia."—Los Angeles Times.

Imaginary Pains.

Don't laugh at hysterical people with their imaginary pains, says a physician. "A delusion" is reality to the sufferer. When one believes one has a pain in the head, the pain is real in the brain, and to believe one has it is to have it. It matters not a whit whether the message is sent by one's brain to some kind of tend in the head or whether it is sent from one part of the brain to another.—New York Tribune.

Unmoved.

"I understand your antagonist is calling you every name he can think of."

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum cheerily. "But he hasn't much of a vocabulary."—Washington Star.

Nature Faking Again.

A commercial traveler driving from town to town through the pine woods of Florida saw a drove of emaciated razorback hogs rushing widely from tree to tree. He halted at the palings of a "cracker's" home, and asked a woman in a sunbonnet what was the matter with the swine.

"Well, you see," the woman explained, "my old man is deaf and dumb, and when he wanted to call the hogs to their swill he learned them to come when he tapped on one of the trees. It worked all right when they first got learned, but now them woodpeckers is makin' the poor things' Magazine."

no better illustration that the tariff. The tariff, under the policy of protection, was originally a means to raise the rate of wages. It has been made a tool to increase the cost of living.

"The cotton cloth schedule was increased in the face of the uncontradicted public testimony of the manufacturers themselves that it ought to remain unchanged."

"The steel interests by a trick secured an indefensible increase in the tariff on structural steel."

"The sugar trust stole from the government like a petty thief, yet Congress, by means of a dishonest schedule, continues to protect it in bleeding the public." (Republican papers, please run their legs off.)—Everybody's copy.

MORE ABOUT MR. GARNETT'S CANDIDACY.

During the Fair, last week, representative people were here from Taylor, Marion, Green, Casey, Russell, Wayne, Clinton, Cumberland, Barren, Bell, Metcalfe and Davies, all of whom met Mr. Garnett, assuring him of their support in his race for Attorney General. We do not know of an announcement in recent years that has struck the people more favorably than that of Mr. Garnett.

In addition to newspaper expressions, published last week, we reprint the following this week:

PINEVILLE SUN:

Through his home newspaper, the Adair County News, Hon. James Garnett announces that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General. It is right that the party should have a representative on the State ticket from the Eleventh Congressional District, and it can make selection of no better one than this brilliant young man, ripe in experience as a lawyer and politician. He is well-known to the Bell county people and this end of the District, and we predict that every county in this District will instruct for him.

THE BUCKSVILLE BANNER:

We are informed through the columns of The Adair County News that Hon. James Garnett, of Columbia, will soon announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General of this state. We hasten to add our endorsement to his candidacy. He is the ideal candidate, both in qualification and location. He would not only poll every Democrat, but would get all good Republicans, who like to reward honesty and qualification.

Mr. Garnett, you are a winner!

FRANKLIN FAVORITE:

The Favorite notes with pleasure the announcement of Mr. James Garnett, of Columbia, for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General on the next State ticket. It is indeed a hopeful sign when such thoroughly competent lawyers as Jim Garnett consent to accept positions under the State Government, and with no disparagement intended toward any candidate now in the field, or who may hereafter see cause to enter, we want to say that the party in Kentucky does not number a more elegant gentleman or one better capacitated to fill the office of Attorney General with the high character of intelligence which its complex duties demand.

M. C. Rankin, Commissioner of Agriculture, has been nominated for Congress by the Republicans in the Seventh district—just nominated that is all.

The State Central and Executive Democratic Committees have been called to meet in Lexington September 10. Important campaign matters will be taken up.

An anonymous letter received at the office of the District Attorney of New York threatens the lives of several Judges in that city and Brooklyn, and several assistant district attorneys. The letter was turned over to the police for investigation.

Hon. Ben. Johnson, Congressman from the Fourth district and Democratic candidate for Governor, visited Columbia last Thursday and attended the Fair. During the day he met hundreds of Adair county people who were very favorably impressed. He was known to many by reputation, but before coming he had met but few personally. It is due Mr. Johnson to state that from expressions heard, our people were exceedingly well pleased with his first visit.

He had with him his three year old son. While Mr. Bertram was away from the team which he was driving, the horses became frightened, broke away and started running toward Russell Springs with the child in the buggy. The team was not stopped until it reached the Winfrey Hotel, having run about three miles. The child was sitting right down in the bottom of the buggy holding on with all his might. He was not injured although the road over which the team ran is very rough.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

All Right in Theory, but Breaks Down in Practice.

Theoretically there is so much in municipal ownership of public utilities that the practical carrying out of its attractive features appears simple and of no serious moment, and for a municipality to take over and run water, lights, sewerage and even transportation appears to taxpayers, and the trade is made without the first assurance that the conduct of these properties will be along practical and business lines.

It is the failure to assure the practical that works the evil, for municipal ownership is a general ownership, and a general ownership results too easily in its being no special business of any citizen or taxpayer to look into or inquire after the conduct of the properties under control. This leaves the management to a few, who soon find that they have only themselves to account to, that people are too busy to demand accountings and taxpayers accept any kind of report, just so there is the appearance of all being right and light, water, sewerage, etc., are given.

It is this indifference and neglect on the part of taxpayers to take note of municipal affairs which make municipal ownership of public utilities a hazardous and expensive matter. The theory of municipal ownership, with its great saving to ratepayers, and the extra service given and the great profit resulting, can all be placed in figures beforehand, but it is a failure unless the taxpayers shall give earnest and serious heed to the conduct of these public utilities, for unless this is done they will wake up some day with broken down properties and a big bond issue to make good.—Newbern Weekly Journal.

THE GREAT TRANSITION.

Public Property Wanted Because "It Costs Nothing, You Know."

"Hello!" said I. "What's that?" And I stopped to pick it up.

"That?" replied the boy who happened to be passing through the school yard with me. "That is nothing but a lead pencil."

"But it is a whole one," said I, "and with a rubber on the end."

"I know it," said the boy.

"What! Do you mean to tell me that you have seen this here pencil?"

"Yes, everybody's seen it."

"All the children in your school have seen this thing here day after day and not one boy has picked it up?"

"Of course. What should we pick it up for? There's plenty in the school-house. The town boys'."

And I had been given a text for a long meditation. Not pick up a whole new lead pencil? And a pencil with a rubber on it?

When I was a boy we prized every state pencil. A boy who looked anybody's state pencil was baited until he gave it up, but a lead pencil was made for lead pencils as the Greeks and Trojans fought for Helen. We scoured the countryside for old horsehooves to sell to the blacksmith for money enough to buy a lead pencil, and, having it, we cut our private mark on it, guarded it, kept it as our last possession, made many a time a precious two inch lead-knife trade one way or the other. I never had but one lead pencil at a time and very often hardly that until I was fifteen years old. And these ten-year-olds seem to pick up a whole one with a rubber! Think of it! The best eraser I had was a piece of rubber boot heel.—Henry T. Bailey in Journal of Education.

A DAY OF RECKONING.

You Cannot Fool All of the People All of the Time.

The recent condemnation as unfit for further service of a number of gas and electric light plants and the closing down of some of them at a dead loss to the taxpayers should serve as a warning to other cities, for this is the fate that is likely to overtake all such plants in the long run. For the first year or two, when no expensive repairs are needed and the plant is thoroughly up to date, it ought not to be difficult to make a good showing. For a few years longer the bad bookkeeping and inadequate reports, that are unfortunately the rule rather than the exception, may blind the citizens to the deterioration of the plant and to its increasing losses. But the day of reckoning inevitably comes when breakdown, bad service or demand for new equipment that cannot be made good as "extensions" causes an investigation, and then it becomes evident that the plant has been a losing proposition almost from the start. No plant should be accepted as evidence of successful municipal management until it has been operated for several years and then examined by expert engineers and accountants.

Carelessness, Not Craft.

At a local government board inquiry held at West Ham, London, to sanction the borrowing by the corporation of £62,300 for electricity extensions it was stated that the electrical undertaking up to the present had resulted in a loss of £7,204, which had been charged to the rates. The inspector pointed out that loans of some thousands of pounds had been sanctioned by the board for purchasing various machines, and he found the council again asking for money to buy machinery for which they had already received the cash.—Morning Post.

The movement for municipal ownership in this country is a hunt by the damogogue for a new issue to catch votes.—Melvin O. Adams.

A MENACE TO CITIES

Professor Fessenden Sounds a Note of Warning.

Cities Not Adapted to Operate Business Enterprise—Loss of Capital Through New Developments—The Danger a Real One.

It is becoming more and more generally recognized that undertakings founded on the great public needs of the highly organized society of modern times should be controlled by society. Whether, having the power, it is advisable that municipalities should actually engage in such undertakings or whether they should merely maintain their control, as it has been aptly put, through their powers as a landlord, is a matter which will be determined by the municipalities from political, social and economic as well as engineering considerations.

Considering the question from its engineering side alone, it is found that from the very essential nature of the matter only a certain class of engineering undertakings can be efficiently and properly operated by states or municipalities. It is very important that this limitation should be recognized, as where the limitation has been overstepped it has resulted in heavy financial losses to the governing bodies involved, and this has seriously checked development in engineering lines, and these results have in consequence afforded a strong argument to those opposed to municipal operation of public utilities.

It is true that under state or municipal operation some minor and sporadic developments may be expected, but nothing of a general or important character. Important developments generally come only from the hands of individuals whose bodies are responsive only to themselves and provided with the incentive of a large profit. The elimination of self responsibility and incentive would inevitably produce a condition in industrial and scientific development analogous to the dark ages.

It is to be noted that this conclusion is derived from engineering considerations alone and does not include any consideration from the political, social or economic side. There may, it is conceivable, be political, social and economic considerations which tend to affect this limitation. Considered, however, from the engineering standpoint, alone this can be no question but that the field of state and municipal operation should be limited to undertakings where there is no immediate prospect of or need for improved method.

A danger which is always associated with the ownership of industrial undertakings is that the capital invested may be lost through the development of new and cheaper methods and processes. The extent to which industrial machinery of certain types is rendered obsolete by new improvements is not always realized. The writer is personally acquainted with one street car railroad plant in which the entire electrical equipment of the power house was thrown out and replaced with improved machinery four times within a period of ten years. The Carnegie company is reported, correctly, it is believed, to have scrapped on one occasion more than $1,000,000 worth of new machinery which had never been used.

This has already become a serious matter for many municipalities which have engaged in undertakings lying outside of the essential limits defined above. Many of these municipalities installed plants for the production of electric light at a time prior to the advent of important improvements in generating and distributing electricity, and as these municipalities in common with most municipalities made no proper allowance for depreciation the capital invested has been practically lost, and in addition the cost of electric light to the consumer is much higher than it is in other places equipped with later and more economical types of machinery. In addition, heavy and expensive repairs have been necessary and the taxes correspondingly increased. This has reacted upon the municipalities, since the heavy rates have caused manufacturers to move away to other towns, and this again has still further increased the burden upon those remaining. There are already indications that a considerable number of these municipalities which have engaged in improper undertakings during the past period of industrial difficulty.—R. A. Fessenden.

As a Socialist Sees It.

Every recognized authority on Socialist economics, from Marx to Ferri, has been and is an avowed economic evolutionist. They all without exception recognize that public ownership under capitalism must come before the full Socialist programme can meet with realization.

When the Socialist party shall come to power in municipality, state or nation it will fall heir to the holdings of its capitalist predecessors. Every dollar's worth of property that we can wrest from private capitalism through public ownership will fall into the hands of the Socialist party without a struggle upon its succession to power.—International Socialist Review.

What Government Is For.

It is the appropriate function of the government to safeguard the individual and to see that the game of business is fairly played, that the cards are held above the table and that everybody is given a square deal. It is not the appropriate function of the government to sit in the game.—Hem, Leslie M. Shaw.

Stew Hais.

There should be a law against any reduction in the price of straw hats in the latter part of the summer. When a man has gone through the painful operation of extracting $3 from his pocket to exchange for a jaunty lid it gives him a feeling such as the Indians must have had when in quest of a scalp when he passes the store window a few weeks later and sees the same bit of straw marked down to 50 cents.

A man doesn't care how much profit a storekeeper makes off him so long as he does not find it out, but when he learns that it is something like 600 per cent he feels like calling a meeting and starting a new political party to get revenge.

If we could have our seasons run backward, like a Child's game, it might lift a long felt want for just one season. After that the wild storekeeper would catch on and reverse his prices to suit the change.

For, after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You can't say anything too good of a medicine like that." Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results are concerned. Now you should try a different but try something practical and sensible, remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the bowels are regular and the muscles are trained to again do their duty normally. In the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds and it will do this. G. T. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will testify. And so will Mrs. A. S. Hampton of Portage, O. To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense. Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a five cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to take and does not grip and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

It is nearly in the last quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasantness it is the ideal laxative for children, women and old folks generally. Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Write to Dr. Caldwell, 1500 Broadway, New York, N. Y., and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample bottle send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For addresses of doctors, address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 400 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

WARREN G. HARDING.

Career of the Republican Nominee For Governor of Ohio.

The Republican nominee for governor of Ohio, Warren G. Harding, is forty-five years old and a native of Ohio, having been born in Blooming Grove, Morrow county, on Nov. 2, 1875. Mr. Harding is a newspaper man and proprietor of the Marion Evening Star of Marion, where he has lived since 1882. He was educated in the public schools and at Ohio Central college at Iberia, the college not now being in existence. He taught school one year and studied law one year and then went into newspaper work. He was elected to the state senate in 1889 from the counties of Logan, Union, Marion and Hardin, that being his first whiff in politics, and he has been prominent in the politics of the state ever since, serving as lieutenant governor of Ohio under Myron T. Herrick. During the career of ex-senator Joseph B. Foraker Mr. Harding was known as an ardent follower and admirer of the senator, but in late years he has not actively allied himself with any faction of the party. He has been mentioned for the governorship a number of times, but has given way to others.

WARREN G. HARDING.

Mr. Harding's great-grandfather, George Tyrone Harding, got his name from a family connection with one of the colonial governors of Connecticut, and his great-grandmother was Elizabeth Madison, a type of the early Ohio pioneer woman. His grandfather, Charles A. Harding, and his grandmother, Mary Crawford Harding, had but one son, George Tyrone, who is a practicing physician at Marion and father of Warren G. His mother, who died recently, was Phoebe Elizabeth Dickerson, descendant of the Dickerson-Van Kirk family.

THE WRIGHT CRUSADE.

Unique Work of a Missourian to Protect Our Native Birds.

If you have made a study of birds you are no doubt aware that most of our beautiful species are rapidly becoming extinct. In truth, one has but to return to the country and roam about a bit to discover that fact. The principal reason, of course, is the demand for their plumage for millinery's hat, and year after year our native birds are ruthlessly slaughtered so that the milliners and dealers may use the feathers to bedeck their wares. Every time Mrs. Jones's bird is killed or Mrs. Green "tucks" hubby for a new bonnet just so many more birds must be destroyed to replace the stock. Now, while this is quite an old story to most people, the good work being done by a Missourian to protect our birds is new and novel enough to awaken much interest in the matter. His name is Ambrose C. Wright, and it is a name that the milliners of this country will have cause to remember ere long. Mr. Wright is the special agent for the state in the plumage of nongame birds, but heretofore little or no attention has been paid to it. Mr. Wright, however, is chiefly directing his efforts to saving the white heron and has practically covered the whole state of Missouri and put the matter before the milliners in a way that will bear fruit in the future. Now he is planning a nation wide crusade for saving our birds.

Sketches Of People In Print

E. N. FOSS.

A MAN who is frequently mentioned these days as a probable nominee for vice president on the Democratic ticket is Eugene N. Foss of Massachusetts, the Democrat who carried the rock ribbon Republican Fourteenth district of congress. That victory has attracted wide attention to him in the past year, and it is now believed that if he can keep himself in the public eye he will be practically certain of a place on the Democratic national ticket in 1912.

Foss is the sort of business man that every politician welcomes into politics until he gets in. It's on the level with him. He doesn't care about being elected to hold an office is bound to interfere tremendously with a dozen or so business enterprises—but he dearly loves to fight. He is a dynamo in the breeches. He began life as a humble salesman and put a prohibitive tariff on the pursuit of happiness for his competitors. Finally he was taken into the opposition firm, married the opposition's daughter and has been putting into practice a number of highly original ideas ever since.

Why do some men succeed so tremendously, while others just tread along and fail to get out of the rut? Well, take the case of Lewis Nixon, the famous shipbuilder, who has just been appointed chairman of the committee for the betterment of steamship service by the pan-American conference.

At Annapolis Lew Nixon more than "made good." In fact, he justified his appointment to such an extent in the estimation of his patron that today the record made by General Eppa Hunton's protégé is a precedent set for other shipbuilders. Young Lew Nixon stood at the very head of his class the first year, and every succeeding year found him still No. 1. In 1882 he was graduated at the head of his class and with a phenomenal record in all his classes.

"How did you manage to do it?" he was once asked. To which he replied: "I just worked. I knew what I wanted, and I just rolled up my sleeves and worked to get it." And it was by rolling up his sleeves and working that brought his later successes.

You will see the name of Thomas L. Higen of Massachusetts mentioned frequently in the dispatches from now on, for as president of the independent petroleum marketers he is going to lend the fight that organization now proposes to make against the Standard Oil company. Mr. Higen was born in Petersburg, Ind., on Nov. 26, 1858. His father was a German, and Thomas was the fifth of eleven children. At the age of sixteen he went to Albany, N. Y., where he became a clerk in a clothing store.

In the meantime his father had experimented with a formula for the manufacture of axle grease, but which the father could not make a commercial success. Later the sons established a small factory and manufactured the grease for sale.

The business is now large and successful, and it is said that the Standard Oil company once offered $800,000 for the plant.

Dr. William T. Hornaday, who has been engaged in a controversy with Frederick Nagel over the destruction of the seals on the Pribilof islands, became the head of the New York Zoological park because he was the one of the continent who ought to be at its head, and he is staying there for the same reason. He was born in Plainfield, Ind., in 1854, and with the exception of one period of error, during which time he dabbed in the real estate business, he has been in the wild animal line—alive, dead, skinned and stuffed. The list of the sportsmen's clubs he belongs to would fill a book, and if he were all the medals with which he has been adorned for his services when he went out still hunting he would soon fill a tin shop filling of a hip roof. Dr. Hornaday has published a dozen or so books of real scientific value and has hunted big game everywhere.

DR. HORNADAY.

TROUBLE AHEAD.

Her gloves will have to match her hat. Her gown be tailor fitted And of the latest mode at that. And will have to be admitted That when fair woman goes to choose And to the ballot counts From picture hat to dainty shoes Her gown will be stunning.

But should the tailor fail to send The new gown as directed. The charming dame will never lend Her aid to the elected. What use is woman suffrage, pray, With which the age is humming, If given upon election day Are old or unbecoming?

ADMIRAL INVENTS CRAFT FOR LAND AND SEA USE.

Howells of Torpedo Fame Predicts Many Uses For It.

Experiments are being made at Bath, Me., with the Amphib, a unique craft built for Rear Admiral John A. Howells, U. S. N., retired, which is designed for use on land as well as on sea.

Rear Admiral Howells, who was the originator of the Howells torpedo, experimented with a similar craft a year ago, but the results were not just what he wanted, so this second craft, considerably larger, has been built, and there is great interest manifested in her trials.

The craft measures twenty feet long and six feet beam, while she has a tall ten feet in length. She is equipped with a single cylinder ten horsepower engine, which will send her along. It is hoped, at the rate of seven miles an hour in the water or twelve miles on land. Mammoth thirty-six inch wheels are situated forward of the engine, and another in the tail of the craft, thus giving the boat the general appearance of a tri-cycle.

Buckets are attached to the forward wheels for use in the water, while there is also a small propeller, which is situated on the port side, for auxiliary service in the water. There is also a small centerboard in the tail which acts as a rudder for steering the craft either on land or on the sea.

Admiral Howells will take his craft to the mouth of the Kennebec river, where it will be tried upon the sands of Popham beach, and she will also be given trials at Old Orchard, and if she works satisfactorily she will be taken to Long Beach, N. Y.

Mr. Howells believes that such a boat has many uses. It could be used as a surfboat at life saving stations, while it could also be used by sportsmen, running along the coast, who could sail on the water or go upon the beaches at will.

WORLD COINAGE PLANNED.

Leipzig Savant to Explain Trade Expansion Idea in Berlin.

Professor Wilhelm Ostwald of Leipzig university, one of Germany's most distinguished savants, who lectured at Columbia and Harvard universities in 1905, has originated a novel project for a universal world coinage.

He has been invited by the Merchants and Manufacturers' association of Berlin to make the first public exposition of his idea before that organization some time in September or October. The association will ask leading bankers and exporters to attend the meeting and join in the discussion as to the practicability of Professor Ostwald's proposition.

The scientist's general idea is that the commerce and intercommunication of nations would be immensely facilitated if a simplified adoption of a money system and coinage common to the whole civilized world.

Professor Ostwald holds honorary degrees from the leading universities of the world.

WAR ON HAT SALUTES.

Darmstadt Society Says It's French and Ungrateful.

"Why raise your hat?" is the motto of the Society For the Promotion of German Modes of Greeting, whose headquarters are at Darmstadt. It is a wonderful habit, the society urges, because it wears out the hat brim. It is unhealthful because in bad weather it is apt to bring on colds. And, worst of all, it is a patriotic insult, for the custom was adopted from the French, the first nation in Europe to bare the head as a form of politeness.

The true mode of greeting for Germans, the members say, is the military salute, which is of purely Teuton origin, having originated among the officers of the Prussian grenadiers.

The society has gained many adherents, and the inhabitants of Darmstadt are now accustomed to see elderly civilians stand rigidly at attention when the hand smartly to the forehead when they meet acquaintances in the street.

China Likes Cheap Watches. Cheap, shoddy, silver cased watches (not the American dollar variety) are the favorites in China. Swiss watches seem to lead.

Gradyville.

We had a good rain last Friday.

The few days of cool weather last week begins to feel like frost and nipping the bud out of tobacco was the topics of the day.

Clem Jones, of East Fork, called in to see us on his return from the Columbia Fair.

Mrs. W. M. Wilmore spent a few days last week by the bedside of her sick brother, Dr. W. T. Grissom, who is in a critical condition.

R. W. Shirley, of Milltown, was in our midst last Friday.

All of our stock men attended the Columbia Fair last week.

Don't it speak well for Gradyville to have both the best horse and mule colts under one year old that were at the Columbia Fair. It certainly is true that uncle Charlie Yates was awarded the premium on the best horse colt and Henry Parson on the best mule colt.

Messrs. Pensley and Mann, two of Edmontons' business men, called in to see us on their return from the Columbia Fair last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. McCandless, of Edmontons, visited relatives at this place last week and attended the Columbia Fair.

Miss Clara D. Wilmore will leave in a short time for Franklin, Va., where she will take up her position as teacher in the Franklin Female Seminary.

On the second Sunday in September there will be all day services at the Methodist church in our city. Every body invited to attend. Our Methodist ladies will have some exercises from the Sunday School pupils. Every body is expected to bring along a little dinner. Also the pastor, Rev Johnson, will deliver us an interesting sermon in the forenoon.

Mr. Milton Roach and family, of Tennessee, are spending a few weeks with relatives in this community.

Mr. Tilden Wheeler, one of our successful farmers as well as business men, attended the Burkesville Fair and reported a nice time. He attended the Columbia Fair last week and sold a nice span of mules to Mr. Pemberton, of Horse Cave, for $375.

Uncle Charlie Yates sold last week one Ale, four years old, for $175.

Mr. L. C. Hindman made a prospecting trip to Marion county last week.

While at Columbia last week Mr. W. L. Grady sold the two fine Peacock colts of Uncle Charlie Yates to some parties in Richmond, Va. We have not learned the price these two fine colts brought. We understand they sold at a fancy price.

The protracted services will begin at Union church about the 3rd Sunday in September. Every body get ready for the meeting. We are expecting a good time.

Mr. Tom Wilson, the well-known stock man, of Hiseville, stopped over for breakfast at the Wilmore Hotel on his return from the Columbia Fair. Mr. Wilson enjoyed the fair and reported a nice time.

Miss Chamberlain, of the State of Alabama, in company with Miss Bragg, of Jamestown, spent a few days here last week with their relatives and friends and on their return home Messrs. Arvest and Ed Hill accompanied them.

Mr. Thomas Bohanan, who left this place about fourteen years ago for the Lone Star State a poor boy, has accumulated enough of this world's goods to live easy. He spent a few days in our midst last week and we were certainly glad to see him again and to know that he is getting along so nicely. He also informed us that Tom Moore, known here as Toper, was a close neighbor of his and was getting along nicely and had plenty of everything around him with a fine growing crop. Tom is a son of uncle Lewis Moore, who lives near this place.

Another feature of the visitors of this section last week was Mrs. Mary Couch, a wife of Harvey Couch, of Lincoln county. She spent several days visiting in this community with her relatives. Mrs. Couch was a daughter of Griffin Coomer and we are glad to say that this lady is very intelligent and her husband is a railroad man and we understand a man of considerable wealth. Mr. Coomer left this county some fifteen years ago for Lincoln county where he had bought a farm. He is the father of Mrs. Couch. It is hard to tell the outcome of Adair county people if you only give them an opportunity.

Mrs. C. O. Moss, in company with her sister, Miss Mollie Flowers, spent last Saturday in Columbia visiting their relatives and friends.

Picnic.

The school at Republican conducted by Mr. Ollie Taylor, is progressing nicely.

Several of the young folks of this neighborhood attended meeting at Creelsboro last Sunday.

There will be an all day singing at Republican the first Sunday in September. Everybody come.

Mr. Wm H. Roysse, who has been in Illinois for a while has come in on a visit.

The Harrodsfork base ball team is having good luck so far as they have not lost a game. They crossed bats with Chestnut Grove Saturday the score standing 23 to 4 in favor of the Harrodsfork team.

Mr. Lewis A. Strange, of Neodesha, Kansas, came in on a visit to gather information in regard to the Strange family, as he is writing a history of them.

Mr. W. L. Strange made a business trip to town last Monday.

Miss Mary Hill, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hill, is some better at this writing. She is afflicted with white swelling.

Mr. S. A. Guthrie, wife and daughter, attended the Burkesville Fair.

Editor News:

Having lately returned from a very pleasant visit to my old home in Russell county I cannot forget the pleasure of expressing through the News how I enjoyed myself while there. A hope of seventeen long years has wrought many changes. Most of the old land marks have passed over the river into that distant country that no traveler returns. When a boy I often wondered who would take the places of "uncle Job Kearns," Tom Collins, Jack Haynes, Geo. Moore, Wm. Payne, B. R. Davidson, D. B. Barger and many others. It seemed to my childish mind that those places could never be filled.

Yet those places are filled, but I fear we young men who never occupy their places do not represent that degree of virtue and stalwart manhood as was so forcibly demonstrated in the lives of our fore-fathers. It was indeed a great pleasure to meet my boyhood friends with whom I was raised and went to school when a barefooted boy.

They are no longer boys, but bearded men, now burdened with the cares and responsibilities of life. One of my greatest pleasures was the privilege of meeting my father's old friends, two of whom were Mr. Sam Reese and Mr. Chris Kearns, who live three miles south-west of Jamestown. The latter's farm joins my father's old homestead. In spite of adversity these men are gradually climbing the hill of success. They have reared large families and are now calmly passing the evening of life in the consciousness of having performed their duty well. Also, it was a pleasure indeed to meet Mr. A. G. Bernard, a lifelong friend of my father's, at whose home I was so hospitably treated. I sincerely wish that every Texian had the pleasure of visiting the Winfrey Hotel at Russell Springs and Harvey Holt's Hotel at Jamestown. I venture the assertion that if the people of Texas knew about the excellency of the table fare and the invalids knew about the curative properties of the water then Russell Springs would become a health resort second to none in the southland.

Holt's Hotel at Jamestown might be called a repeater, for to go there once only makes one want to go again. Here is to you "Rash," if you ever come my way I will be as good to you as you have been to me. I reached home on the 13th, found all the ex-Kentuckians, namely W. L. Taylor, L. Helm, L. Vaughan, Tom Moore, T. O. Collins and a number of others all getting ready to take care of their cotton crops which is beginning to open and promises to be a fine yield and is worth at present 14 1/2 cents per pound. If this misses the waste basket will write again.

All day singing at a Sulphur Well, near Craycraft, the 1st Sunday in September.

McGAHA, NO. 2.

The Musical Association was a great success. Peace and harmony prevailed.

Mr. U. G. Anderson gave the welcome address. The responses by J. F. Hughes and Capt. Bradshaw were well received.

Prof. J. V. Dudley wrote that he endorsed the move and would gladly aid in carrying it out in the future. J. F. Hughes, Henry Womack, Hindman Womack, Rucker P. Grimsley, James Kerns and I. M. Grimsley took a part in the discussions.

The solo rendered by Miss Ida Bryant and W. H. Womack was highly appreciated. The quartets led by Misses Eva Bryant and Myrtle Shepherd, Messrs. John Burton, Curtis McGaha, and Hindman Womack won the applause of all present.

The singing in the afternoon was excellent, led by Henry Womack, James Kerns, J. F. Hughes, Anderson Murrell, Cortez Bryant, Esco Stapp, John Burton and the writer.

The day was well spent, though it was intensely warm yet it was pleasant to be there.

The writer was elected President of the Association.

We are invited to hold our next Association at Pleasant View church which will be the 2nd Sunday in October.
